PREFACE.

The oldest Register of the Alston Parish, which is preserved locally, contains the following entries :

ALSTON.

BAPTISMS.

1706—1727, and a few odd items on detached and defaced leaves.

MARRIAGES.

1701—1727.

BURIALS.

1701—1727.

GARRIGILL.

BAPTISMS.

1708—1729. There is also a most unique feature. I have never heard of the like in any other Parish. "A distinct Register of Nonconformists." This covers the period from 1704 to 1728.

The "Nonconformists" were (1) the Presbyterians introduced by Burnand of Brampton* or (2) the Independents who followed Reginald Walton,† or (3) both parties. The last suggestion is most likely to be fact.

*Vide Calamy, Silenc'd Ministers, Vol. ii. p. 158 †Vide. p. v.

MARRIAGES.

1699—1730.

BURIALS.

1699—1729.

The Garrigill entries are thus earlier than the Alston ones by about two years.

The present volume contains only the Garrigill section of this old book.*

Besides the original Register there is a copy very carefully executed. This copy is endorsed:—

“Copy of Register of the Parish of Alston commencing 1st Sep. 1706† and ending 4th March, 1729. Copied by order of the Rev. Archdeacon Thorpe, A.D. 1811, by me

John Coulthard.”

At the end there is a certificate:—“We, the undersigned, having perused and examined this copy, Do Certify it to be a true and faithful copy of the Register of the Parish of Alston, or as much so as the Defaced State of the Old Books would admit.

Benjn. Jackson,
Vicar of Alston.”

It is a local tradition that all records prior to this date were sent to Durham, and enquiries are being made into the matter.

*There are really two books, for the Garrigill parchment is less than the Alston. †This date refers to Alston.

Our oldest Register is not our oldest local record. The most ancient locally preserved writing is found on a tombstone, which reads :—

HEARE LYETH
THE BODY OF CVTHBERT WATSON
WHO DEPARTED THIS LIFE THE 14th
DAY OF SEPTEMBER, 1692.

It is intended to remove this stone, which has been displaced for many years, to the interior wall of the new vestry, where it will be permanently preserved.

As indicating the great interest with which this Register is invested I will refer to some of the family and personal names we find here.

The first family name is that of Archer. This name can be traced back in the neighbourhood to an early date in the XIII Century. Archbishop Gray (1216-1255) granted to John le Archer 40 acres of land in Allendale in 1228. It has been conjectured that he was the "progenitor of the stock in South Tynedale." We find the Archers established in this Parish early in the XV Century.

Another interesting name is that of Vipond. This is a corruption of the Latin name of one of the Norman followers of the Conqueror—Veteri Ponte—a cognomen which appears as early as 1085. The following facts indicate the association of this name with this district :—

Genealogical - 7.50

1.—The parishes of Alston (including Garrigill), Knarsdale, Kirkhaugh, Whitfield, Simonburn, and part of Haltwhistle formed the Franchise of Tyne-dale and was holden by the Kings of Scotland of the Crown of England.

2.—The Manor of Alston and other lands were given to William de Veteriponte by William the Lion King of Scotland. This grant was confirmed by King John on May 10th, 1209.

3.—Ivo de Veterieponte gave the “advowson of the Church of Alderstone and THE CHAPEL OF GERARDEGILE” to the Canons of Hexham in 1215. This grant received the confirmation of King John.

4.—The son of Ivo was Robert. Edward I. recovered from Robert Veteriponte the manor of Alston.

5.—The manor was restored to Nicholas de Veteriponte in 1282. He died in 1315, and by an inquest it was found that he died possessed of “the capital messuage in Alderstone,” and that he “HAD 33 TENANTS IN GERARDSGILL,” who held 33 shieldings.

6.—These lands, with others, remained in this family until 1443.

A name full of suggestion occurs in the Deaths under the year 1713, that of Reginald Walton. The entry reads :—

“Reginald Walton of Upper Lee House was buried the 4th of August, 1713.”

The grave-stone of this Reginald Walton is a curiosity.

During the restoration of our Church, when the Rev. P. T. Lee, M.A., was Curate-in-charge, a monumental slab, lying in the Churchyard, was brought into the Church for its better preservation, because it is inscribed with a Latin epitaph. It forms part of the Church pavement, but is covered with a mat. It reads as follows:—

HIC IACET CORPUS REG
INALD WALTON NVP
ER DE VPPER LEEHOVSE
QVI OBIIT PRIMO DIE
AVGVSTI ANNO DOMI.
1713 AETATIS SVEE 93. Q

The mason in cutting the letters has made a mistake—SVEE should be SVAE. Having made this correction, the translation runs:—“Here lies the body of Reginald Walton, late of Upper Lee-house, who died on the 1st day of August, in the year of the Lord 1713, in the 93rd year of his age.” I have often been asked who Reginald Walton was, but there is nothing in our books and papers to show. One thing has always impressed me as being peculiar, which, perhaps, I can best express in a question:—Who, in Garrigill, would appreciate Latin sufficiently to choose a Latin epitaph either for himself or another?

The question always suggested to my mind the answer that the man with such preferences was not one who had spent all his days among the sheep or game on the fells. Chancellor Ferguson of Carlisle has brought to light some information which perhaps clears up the case. A "Declaration of Indulgence" was issued in 1672 (temp. Charles II.) under which Presbyterians and Congregationalists took out licences to preach in private houses. Many of these men under the Commonwealth had assumed the charge of Parish Churches and had appropriated their revenues, but had been deposed at the Restoration (1660). Such were Burnand of Brampton, and Larkham of Cockermouth. Well, in the list of these licences there appears this item:—"The house of Reginald Walton of Alston More (sic) in Cumberland, Congregationalist, 29th June, 1672."

Now, the Reginald Walton referred to by our Latin tombstone would be 52 years of age in 1672, quite competent as to age to claim licence. Further, a man taking an active part in the civil and religious strife of his day would not be an unlikely man to have a Latin epitaph. The conclusion is that it is possible, if not probable, that the tombstone refers to the Reginald Walton who took out his licence to preach as a Nonconformist. If this be so, it is certainly remarkable that the tombstone of the first permanently resident dissenter lies within the Church door. Burnand also lived here but not for long.

The list to which reference is made lies in the Rolls Office, in "The Domestic Entry Book of Charles II."

These notes must not be considered exhaustive. They are merely given as illustrating the fact that in these dry looking catalogues of names we have a priceless local history.

One other point is worthy of notice. It will be seen that, in this Register, the name of our village is spelt Garragill, whereas the modern spelling is Garrigill. The second a is less of a corruption, though it looks unfamiliar if not unwelcome, than the accepted i—Garrigill. We all know that the ancient name of our valley is Gerrard's Gill. It would seem that the second a in Garragill is the second vowel of Gerrard. Garragill is purer than Garrigill. I find that Palmer adopts the form Garragill in The Tyne and its Tributaries.

It will be observed that Garrigill is sometimes called Gate. Some hold that the word signifies merely "the street," while others trace it to Cattle-geat or pasture. In the latter sense the word has affinity for shielding and shield. I hope to discuss this fully in a later volume.

I have only to add that the capricious and erratic spelling is explained by the fact that the original manuscript in carefully followed.
